During the Supervisory Skills programmes (Technical) , farm managers are invited to join the last 1 or 2 hours of each programme to engage with their Supervisors, lead by the facilitator, to motivate discussions on what the Supervisors have learned and what can be implemented. This also creates an opportunity to discuss obstacles and clear out possible miscommunication issues between Supervisors and Managers.

b) FARM MANAGERS COACHING PROGRAMME

Managing Quality, Productivity and Morale

Experience has shown that Supervisors need to be coached by their Managers after they've completed a training programme.

Managers must assist them in applying their knowledge to add value to the farm's quality, productivity and morale improvement strategies.

Our programme addresses the management skills required to develop your supervisors to their full potential.
